Judge Begbie. It is said that this gentleman is to be arraigned at the bar of the Executive Council to-morrow. There are strange rumors afloat as to the reasons for this extraordinary course on the part of the Executive. One is to the effect that Mr Begbie has been marked as a victim for declining to endorse the late illegal and outrageous policy of Mr Seymour at Cariboo; the other (and most im probable) is that charges have been made against him of speculating in mining claims. Mr Begbie is by no means a popular man. Through a mistaken sense of duty he has been guilty of more than one act of oppression in times gone by, for which he has been visited with the full weight of public censure. But that he has been corrupt-that he has undertaken to adjudicate in suits where he was in any manner interested -we cannot bring ourselves to believe. He is a man of original ideas and singular independence of thought and character. Without, perhaps, possessing the legal experience of Mr Needham, like that gentleman he is utterly regardless of the vox populi which so frightened poor Governor Seymour out of his propriety, and where he believes he is right, enforces his decisions at every hazard. In the Grouse Creek imbroglio Mr Begbie has been little more than a spectator. Some of the gentlemen who compose the Canadian Company having "no confidence in Mr Begbie," last winter came down to Westminster and lobbied a bill through the Council which granted no appeal from the decision of the Gold Commissioner on matters of fact. They had at that time, no doubt, their eyes fastened upon the ground now in dispute; and made sure that the decision of the Gold Commissioner would be in their favor. "But man proposes and God dispess." The very first case that came up under the new law was their own. The decision ef the Commissioner was adverse to them, and when they sought a rehearing on an appeal they found that their influence in the lobby had closed and barred the door of the Supreme Court against them. So Judge Begbie decided; and partly on account of this decision and partly because a victim is wanted to hide the bungling of Her Majesty's representative, he is summoned to Westminster. This, we believe, will be found to be the true reason of Mr Begbie's summary recall. That the result will be unfavorable to him we do not believe If he has erred in this instance, he has erred on the side of justice; and if an effort is being made to officially decapitate him for fearlessly pursuing what he believed to be a proper and legal course, the lease of life of the Seymour administration will be short, and its end as disastrous as that which overtook Governor Darling, of Aus-

"The mills of the gods grind slowly, But they grind exceeding small."

Communication with Kootenay.

The testimony of an experienced packer who has travelled both routes to the Kootenay diggings is given in favor of the route through British Columbia over that through Oregon for two very weighty reasons, viz. the low price of goods in Victoria, and the cheapness of steam communication with the head of navigation on the Fraser. Goods on which duty has been paid, he says, can be bought here at a rate twenty-five per cent, lower than the same goods can be obtained for in Portland; and freight on the steamer, which is nine dollars per ton from Victoria to Hope, is thirty-two dollars and fifty-cents per ten from Portland to Walla Walla. The longth of the trails is about the same, and at a rough estimate only $2500 are required to improve the trail over Koote-

This information is important. If the Kootenay mines can be supplied with merchandise that costs twenty-five per cent. less in this place that at the only other possible point of supply, and if goods can be carried on steamers interest to the highest point of navigation and transported across the country into the diggings at a much less rate through British territory than through American territory, it follows that, with a reasonable amount of energy on the part of the Government and mercantile classes, no obstacle can interpose to our merchants monopolising the trade of this district, which bids tair to become at no distant day a very heavy consumer of every article on sale here. For the past two or three years many of the Kootenay packers have brought their loads from Walla Walla under the impression that that is the cheapest point of supply. The evidence of Mr Dakim in favor of this route will convince them of their error, and should the recent reports of the discovery of rich diggings in the vicinity of Pen d'Oreille River and Lake be confirmed, very heavy demands for goods will doubtless be made upon our merchants at an early date next spring.

San Francisco, Sept. 11—The sensation to-day was the Hayes-Higgins hand organ procession. Long before the time for starting arrived, Montgomery street was literally thronged with men, women and children. Every window, roof and balcony was appropriated by crowds of people, anxious to witness the proceedings. Promptly at 11 o'clock the procession moved from Jackson street down Montgomery. Mr Higgins, with his hand organ, was preceded by a carriage in which rode Messrs Badger and Sweeney. Close behind him was special officer Bloomer, carrying a small-sized sack of money on his shoulder. Then came Kidd's band. A large force of policemen, under Chief Crowley, accompanied them. The excitement knew no bounds, and in the din and uproar of the vast throng closely packed around the performer and surging to and fro, the music of the little piping organ could be heard more than forty feet. Considerable sums were brought to the collectors, but the principal part was thrown into the street. Half-dollars and packages of money came flying from every direction, and as it fell the erowd would pick it from the ground and throw it over to the carriage. Carpets, clothing, books, &c., came tumbling from windows, roofs and balconies on the heads of the crowd beneath. They were placed in the carriage in which the treasurers rode. At this hour the result has not been announced, but the cash receipts approximated to $5000.

Pope Pius IX.

The Roman correspondent of the Liberte (M. de Girardin's paper,) writing on the 4th of July, gives some particulars about the Pope which are not without "The Holy Father is now in his 75th year. He is of the middle height, or slightly above it. The air of Rome and singlify above it. I have given him an embonpoint, not, however, enough to inconvenience him, and which disappears under his ecclesiastical costume. His hair is white, though thick; his forehead large and prominent ; the eyes deep set, and flashing with strange light; all the features are strongly marked, but in harmony with each other. There are no wrinkles on that face; the complexion is slightly coloured, but transparent. The with in Italians. His health is excellent. In 1860, care, and sorrow, and anxiety for the future imparted to the humours an extraordinary movement. There was intermittent fever, and during the winter of 1863 there were serious fears for his life. But the robust constitution of the Pope triumphed easily over these complications; the fever went off, and health soon returned."

The correspondent of the Liberte says:

"I met the Pope yesterday outside the Angelica gate. He was on foot, accompanied by one of his camerieres. It gave me as much as I could do to keep up with him, he walked so rapidly. Everything about him shows extraordinary vig our, and the longest ceremonies do not exhaust him. He takes a walk every day on foot in the Pincio or outside the walls. Of the habits of his Holiness he says,-

"The Pope always rises at 5 o'clock. He at once goes to his prayers. At 6, a valet de chambre is in attendance to shave him, after which he is visited by his doc-tor. At 7 he says mass. He rarely breakfasts before 11, on account of the offices of the Sistine Chapel, and also because he receives his Ministers in the morning. Pius IX. very seldom presides at the Council of Ministers; that duty is left to Cardinal Antonelli, who gives an account to the Pope the same day of the resolutions that may be adopted, and who submits for his decision matters of import-The temperate habits of the Pope are well known in Rome. A friend of mine attached to the Embassy was present last winter at his dinner-a fast day -having an urgent despatch to communicate. The Popo dines alone at a little table—this is strict etiquette. His Holiness had just partaken of a soup of herbs, and he had before him two gurnets—the gurnets of Italy resemble sardines—a plate of French beans, and three little apples. This excessive sobriety keeps him in gentle gaiety. He converses very willingly during his walk and after his dinner, at which his intimates are present, partic ularly M. de Merode, who he has been obliged to sacrifice, but whom he always sees with great pleasure. M. de Merode is of a sprightly mind, but somewhat caustic, and the Pope is often obliged to stop him in the the name of charity which is due to our fellow-creatures. M. de is due to our fellow-creatures. Merode told the Pope a day or two ago that Monseigueur B—, Bishop of—, in France, when conducting his clergy to the Coliseum, pointed out to his vicar-general the spot where Nero used to view the dying gladiators. His Holiness burst out laughing! Every one knows that the Coliseum was built on the site of Nero's gardens; that Vespasian laid the first stone of it, and that it was finished under Titus and Domitian. At 10 the Pope retires to his little apartment, the monastic simplicity of which is known to all the

"There are two distinct characters in the Pope-the man and the Supreme Pontiff. The man is simple, kind hearted familiar, accessible, and playful; the Pontiff is dignified, nustere, and sometimes even terrible. He has also two distinct physiognomies—the one full of meek. ness when he blesses the crowd prostrated before him; the other biblical, terrible, inspired, which all may have remarkwhen, borne on his gestatoria, on the eve of St. Peter's, with arm stretched forth, against the spoliation of the Holy See The lines of the mouth on these occasions assumed a strange appearance; the lips became thin and compressed, and lost that expression of goodness which all have remarked in his portraits."

His Holiness occupies himself very little with the Government. Cardinal Antonelli does nothing without consulting him, but the Pope always approves. His memory is extraordinary, and he recognizes at his audience persons whom he had seen only a few minutes two or three

The correspondent of the Liberte ac quits Pius of all taint of that nepotism which distinguished, or disgraced, many of his predecessors. On his accession to the Pontifical throne he sent for his heirs, and said to them, "Here are 500,000f., it is all that you shall ever get from me," and he has kept his word. In the opinion of a great number of enlightened Catholies the invasion of the States of Church has restored the Papacy to its true mission, and Pius 1X. exercises a moral authority greater assuredly than any of his predecessors :-"The Pope has a civil list of about 3,500,000f,—£140,000. It is out of this moderate sum that he keeps Papal Nuncios in foreign Courts, and pays 22,000f. (£880.) a year of each of the Cardinals who reside in Rome. Out of this, too, he keeps up the Vatican, that immense place which contains not less than 4,000 rooms, and which requires a large that immense place which contains not less than 4 000 rooms, and which requires a large staff of domestics. The Pope also pays the Palatine Guard and the Noble Guard; keeps up the Pontifical Chapel, pays the camerieres, his bousehold, &c. All this is administered with astonishing regularity and economy. In Rome the Pope is universally beloved. The Pope is good, but his Government is bad, is the riterrally of all the Romes proposed of the riterrally of all the Romes proposed. the ritornallo of all the Romans, persuaded as they are that it a humiliation for them to be governed by priests. There is some elever-ness in making this distinction between the Pope and his Government, The French Revolution had its starting point in the fol-lowing words, which were incessantly repeat-ed at Versailles, as in Paris, in 1790— The King is good—ah l if the King knew all.

DEATH OF AN ECCENTRIC SAVANT, -The death of Dr. Trousseau (says the Star's Paris correspondent) has revived many interesting anecdotes of his early days. When but fourteen he was attending a course of lectures on magnetism given in a small country village, where it happened Dr. Bretonneau was recruiting his health. A workman, whose sight had been seriously injured by a splinter of iron having entered his eye, was attended by the Doctor, who, with all his skill, utterly failed in extracting the small fragment imbedded in the mass of inflamed flesh. The boy Trousseau heard of the case, and returning from a lecture on the power of the magnet, asked leave to try its success. the magnet, asked leave to try its success. As the experiment could not produce whole physiognomy an expression of gentleness and of extraordinary benevolence. Had Pius IX. been a prince, instead of bolding the highest place in the Catholic hierarchy, it might be said that his visage was marked by that good nature which of the facts revealed to him in the leaves. was marked by that good nature which of the facts revealed to him in the lecture, Stendhall declares he has never yet met adopted him as his pupil, with what readopted him as his pupil, with what result we all know. During the last two months Dr. Trousseau pointed out daily to his class of hospital students the progress of the disease which carried him off, and a few days before his death inspected the tomb he had ordered to be erected for himself. He said the masons had done their work well; and after paying them, drove to an undertaker's where he arranged as to his funeral, settling the amount it was to cost, remarking as he did so that relations were usually overcharged, and he was determined his family should only pay what was right. FRED. PAYNE has removed his Cheap Shaving Shop to the opposite side of Johnson street, just above the Miner's Saloon.

From Kootenay-The Superiority of this Route over the Columbia Route.

Mr George H Dakim left Fisherville, on Wild Horse Creek, Kootenay, on the 20th of August, and arrived here on Saturday evening. He reports that the Deep Shalt Company had got to bed rock at a depth of 106 feet and found it bare with the rock pitching under the creek's bed at an angle of 450. The company are now running a drift across the creek with the design of sinking again. The general mining news is good. The Chinamen are doing well. Four of the Celestials also arrived here on Saturday with $12000 which they worked from a claim that had been abandoned by white men. The Nipand-Tuck Company have ground sluiced this season and made from $12 to $16 per day to the hand. Next year the company will introduce hydraulics, and Mr Dakim's business here is to procure the necessary apparatus for hydraulicing from San Francisco, On Boulder Creek, Macarthy & Co. are making money, and many other claims have been off on the same stream. Judge O'Reilly has gone to Finlay Creek with a number of miners for the purpose of lessing them a section of mining ground. There were no cases to come before the Judge for trial. The population is orderly. The Chinamen have all paid $5 each mining license

Mr Dakim brought a train of pack-animals through to Hope across the trail, and pronounces it a fine one with the exception of the portion over Kootenay Mountains and Kootenay Bottom, a distance of thirty miles, which a packer says he will avoid for $2500 for which sum he will make a new trait around the mountain. Mr Dakim has traveled to Kootenay through Oregon and gives the preference to this route, as being shorter and less expensive. Goods can be bought, duty paid, in Victoria, 25 per cent. less that the same goods can be obtained out of bond in Portland. He advises all packers and traders to send their goods to the mines via Hope, for the cogent reason that the steamer freight on the Columbia River to Walla Walla is $32 50 per ton, while the steame freight from Victoria to Hope is $9 per ton The packing costs about the same on b th routes.

FROM KOOTENAY -A few miners arrived yesterday from Keotenay. On Wild Horse Creek, hydraulic mining was carried on with success. McCarty had conducted the water from Boulder creek on to the bank of Wild Horse creek by a ditch. Four Chinamen, arrived yesterday, took out $12000 from a claim worked out, as was supposed, by white men. The latter, it appears, worked on the bank until they came to a boulder, which they supposed was the bedrock, and quit work in consequence. The Chinamen, content with small pay, followed up and get round the boulder, the pay increasing as they worked, until finally they took out the above amount. Mr Train, who is down here, says he has sent by express via is down nere, says he has sent by express via the Columbia, to San Francisco, for hose to work in the hill, which he is confident will pay well, having obtained excellent pros-pects.—N. W. Examiner.

Collegiate School .- To day being the seventh anniversary of the foundation of the Collegiate School, the usual commemoration celebration will be observed. The pupils of Angela College and the boys of the Collegiate School will assemble in their respective school-rooms at 10 o'clock. At half-past 10 they will proceed to the Cathedral, where, after morning prayer said, a sermon will be preeched by the Rev. The Principal. It is hoped that, though the sermon will be specially addressed to the pupils, the parents and friends of the children will be present. The boys of the Collegiate School are invited to a pic-nic lunch with the Principal, and the afternoon will be spent in the enjoyment of the usual school games.

THE LAUNCH AT SOOKE .- We are sorry to hear that the launch of the new brig turned out a firsco. A numerous and fashionable party went down in the Forward to grace the ceremony. The bottle was broken and the name given, but the hull declined to move. A hawser was passed to the gunboat and the order given "to go ahead, full speed." The rope snapped and the ship remade in a few days.

THE CHERRY CREEK SILVER LEAD .- Mr. Claudet. Government Assayer, has returned from an official visit to the Cherry creek silver mine, and his opinion is made known through the columns of the Government Gazette. Mr Claudet mentions the finding of segregated veins of silver ore and one solid lump weighing nearly 11/2 owt.; and adds "it would appear that an extraordinary rich pocket of ore was discovered in the bed of the creek, and that segregated veins, containing ore, permeate the slate; but beyond this nothing definite is known at present." Mr. Claudet thinks the company's "tunnel and shaft were undertaken prematurely." In concluding his report Mr Claudet says : "It is scarcely probable that such a considerable deposit of ore should have existed in a certain spot without there being more in the vicinity, and it is much to be hoped that the steps about to be taken by the Company will, before the lapse of many weeks, remove all uncertainty in the matter. That the general indications are favorable there can be no doubt, and it would not be a matter of astonishment to me if the district were, at no distant period, to prove highly metalliferous; and it is also my opinion that every facility and encouragement should be afforded to companies prospecting this country for minerals, as upon the discovery and development of its mines depends its future welfare. Foreign capital would find its way to us, a large mining population would rise up and be retained, and the agricultural resources of the fertile valleys of the interior would be developed simultaneously, the present state of depression would rapidly disappear, and enterprise and prosperity spring up in its place. In connection with this report I append the results of some assays made by me, of silver ore taken at different times from the Cherry Creek Mine:

Assay No. 1. 2. 3. Silver..1035 oz 1388 oz 1591 oz 1259 oz Gold...Traces. 1 oz 6 dwts Traces.

Specimen of argentiferous Galena from the old tunnel: Lead 64 per cent., Silver 612 oz., Gold 10 dwts., per Ton of 20 cwt."

ARRIVAL OF H. M. S. SCOUT .-- II. M. S. Scout, Capt Price, 54 days from Panama, arrived yesterday morning at 3 o'clock, and anchored in Esquimalt harbor. Capt Price reports the health of his ship as good. There were fresh cases of yellow fever, and several of the men died on the paysage up, and those on the sick list rapidly convalesced after leaving Panama, while lying at which port five men and Dr. Sproule died. Notwithstanding the favorable report of the health of the Scout, Admiral Hastings ordered a strict quarantine antil the Governor had been first communicated with. At noon a favorable answer was received from the Governor and the restrictions were removed by order of Dr Trimble, who visited and inspected the ship in the capacity of Health Officer.

RIFLE MATCH .- A match is arranged for Thursday, commencing at 10 o'clock, between the men of the Fleet and the Victoria Volunteers, to come off at the butts of the Navy at Belmont. The ranges are two, three, four and six hundred yards, five rounds each. The Volunteers will be rspresented by the following members of the corps: Lieut. Turner, Adjt Vinter, Sergt Norris, Corpl Allsop, Private John Wilson, and Bandsmen Soar, Homfray, Newbury and Hargreaves, and one other yet to be selected. Admiral Hastings has kindly placed his steam launch at the disposal of the Volunteers and visit rs for the day, and the Band of the Zealous will be present during the match.

ARRIVAL OF THE NEW WORLD. - The steamer New World came in from the Sound a 9 o'clock last evening. She brought 81 passengers and a large freight. Among the passengers were His Excellency Governor Moore, of Washington Territory, and family, Col. Scott and MajorHoyt, D. Evans, of W F. & Co., F. Tarbell, J. Carne, A. & M. Schmidberg, Dr Cool and Capt. G. Walker.

The phrase ANNUAL DIVIDENDS, in this Company means dividends made anoually, from the start, on the FIRST and overy subsequent premuum; and NUT at the expiration of three, four, or five years, and only then annually. By this system there is no delay for the red motion of scrip, as in some companies.

is Constitutional dromes, a corruption the blood, by which this fluid becomes viriated, weak, and poor. Being in the circulation, it pervades the whole body, and may burst out in disease on any part of it. No organ is free from its attacks, nor is there one which it may not destroy. The scrofulous taint is variously caused by mercurial disease, low living, disordered or unhealthy food, impure air, filth, and filthy habits, the depressing vices, and, above all, by the venereal infection. Whatever be its origin, it is hereditary in the constitution, descending "from parents to children unto the third and fourth generation;" indeed, it seems to be the rod of Ilim who says, "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children."

Its effects commence by deposition from the blood of corrupt or ulcerous matter, which, in the lungs, liver, and internal organs, is terracal tubercles; in the glands, swellings; and on the surface, cruptions or sores. This foul corruption, which genders in the blood, depresses the energies of life, so that scrofulous constitutions not only suffer from scrofulous complaints, but they have far less power to withstand the attacks of other diseases: consequently, vast numbers perish by disorders which, although not scrofulous in their nature are still rendered fatal by this taint in the system. Most of the consumption which decirantes the human family has its origin directly in this scrofulous contamination; and many destructive diseases of the liver, kidneys, brain, and, indeed, of all the organs, arise from or are aggravated by the same cause.

One quarter of all our people are scrofulous; their persons are invaded by this lurking infection, and their health is undermined by it. To cleanse it from the system we must renovate the blood by an alterntive medicine, and invigorate the blood by an alterntive medicine, and invigorate Scrofula, or King's Full.

See LANCET, Sec. 31, 1864. Dr J. Collis Erowno's Chlorodyno—Extract from Manicat Tines, Jan 12th, 1866—18 prescribed by scores of orthodox medical practioners. Of course it would not be time singularly popular did it not supply a want and fill a piece.

Dr J. Collis Browno's Chlorodyne is the best and a st certain remedy in Coughs, Joids, Asthma, Cor sumption, Neuraigla, Rheumatism, &c.

Dr J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is a certain ture in Cholors, Dysentery, Inarrhoss, Coller, &c.

So wide is the field of its usefulness, and so manerous are the cases of its cures, that almost every section of country abounds in persons, publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. When once tried, its superfority over every other medicine of its kind is to apparent to escape observation, and where its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmonary organs that are incident to our climate. While many inferior remedies thrust upon the community have failed and been discarded, this has gained friends by every trial, conferred benefits on the afflicted they can never forget, and produced cures too numerous and too remarkable to be orgotten. Dr. J. Collis Browno's Chlorodyne—Extract from the General neard of health, London, as to its efficacy in Cholera—So strengly are we convinced of the immense value of this remedy, that we cannot too foreibly urge the necessity of adopting it in all cases. From A. Montgomery, Esp., late Inspector of Hospitals, Bombay—Chlorodyne is a most valuable remedy in Neuralgia, Asthma and Dysentery. To it Italily owe my restoration to health after eighteen months' severe suffering and when all other medicines had failed.
